The Historical Context of Between Shades of Gray

The Soviet Occupation of Lithuania

In the aftermath of World War II, Eastern Europe found itself under the shadow of Soviet influence. Lithuania, a Baltic nation with a rich cultural history, experienced brutal occupation starting in 1940 when the Soviet Union annexed it as part of its expansionist policies. The occupation was characterized by mass deportations, political repression, and attempts to eradicate national identity.

The Soviet authorities aimed to consolidate control by removing those deemed a threat—political dissidents, intellectuals, farmers, and anyone who resisted collectivization. Between 1941 and 1953, thousands of Lithuanians were forcibly removed from their homeland, sent to Siberian labor camps, or exiled to remote regions of the Soviet Union. These deportations were often carried out through clandestine operations, with families torn apart and communities shattered.

The Deportations

The deportations began in earnest in 1941, with the most notorious wave occurring in June 1941, known as the "June Deportation," which targeted hundreds of thousands of Lithuanians, Latvians, and Estonians. Families were given little warning, packed into trains or barges, and sent to distant Siberian gulags or tundra regions. The deportees faced starvation, harsh climates, forced labor, and a relentless effort by Soviet authorities to suppress national identities.

Personal Stories of Resistance
